- Annual computer tune-ups are the best way to keep your computer running fast and virus free for years to come.
- Many systems have viruses that take up precious resources and should be removed and prevented.
- Heat is the number one killer of computers. Annually blowing out your system and testing all fans keeps it cool and safe.
- Keeping all software up to date, including security patches, helps keep you safe from information theft and viruses.

Our full computer tune-up and annual renewal tune-up processes are very similar. We clean up your computer so that it runs quickly, efficiently and safely. We remove old, out of date programs not being used, free up temporary internet "junk" files, old system restore points, and temporary install directories. We do a comprehensive scan for Viruses, Malware, Trojans, Rootkits, and scam ware viruses using 5 different scanners. Your computer leaves with an Active (always running and scanning) virus scanner as well as a Passive (manually update and run) scanner to detect occasional malicious software and viruses that can find their way into your computer by browsing the internet or opening e-mails. The re-infection rate of your computer after our service becomes minimal.

As part of our full service tune-up we test all of the major components in your computer, your hard drive being the most important. We can detect imminent drive failure before it happens, allowing you to save all of your valuable data. Unless you have current backups, a hard drive failure will cost you all of your photos, music, and data files. Other component failures can render your computer useless. We test all fans and blow out all the accumulated dust that can be picked up over the years. Clogged or malfunctioning fans cause your computer to run hot, slow down, and eventually burn out the components. These can get expensive to replace. When your computer leaves Fox Computer & Networking, it will run faster, smoother, and will be protected from viruses and other malware. Additionally Windows and all other common software will be up to date.
